COMMISSIONERS' ACTIVITIES

South Africa Needs More Transparent Public and Private Bodies

The South African Human Rights Commission and Information Regulator have called for more accessibility to information during the recently held Universal Access to Information Day held on 28 September 2017.

Special Rapporteur on Freedom of Expression, Pansy Tlakula says WC judgement on political parties funding is a victory for PAIA Act.

The Commission raised concerns that despite numerous advocacy efforts, Government departments do not comply with access to information regulations. "Majority of Government Departments and Municipalities do not report according to Section 32 of the Promotion of Access to Information Act," said SAHRC CEO Tseliso Thipanyane. In addition, Commissioner Angie Makwetla echoed Thipanyane's sentiments: "There are lots of things still to be done with regards to access to information," Commissioner Angie Makwetla.

On the other hand, the Information Regulator has with the Commission by citing that the recent Western Cape Judgment compelling Political Parties to disclose funders is a step in the rights direction. "This will help citizens to make informed choices during elections," said Commissioner Pansy Tlakula.

Public and private bodies will share experiences, successes and challenges in realising the right of access to information.

Stability Returns to Klipspruit West School

Stability has returned to Klipspruit West Secondary School in Soweto after an agreement was reached with the South African Democratic Teachers Union (SadtU) that teachers would return to work.

The Gauteng Department of Education also said that teachers from about 30 schools in Eldorado Park, who were participating in a stay-away, would return to their respective schools.

In a statement on Wednesday, Gauteng education department spokesperson Steve Mabona said SadtU was satisfied with the intervention implemented by the department to restore functionality at Klipspruit West.

The interventions include: security personnel deployed to the school for access control, community members will not be allowed to prevent teachers from accessing the school, and the allegations of racism will be investigated by the South African Human Rights Commission (SAHRC).
